Williamsburg Orthodontics Gives Dream Catchers Therapy Horse a New Smile

WILLIAMSBURG, Virginia – Williamsburg Orthodontics just gave therapy horse Bo, a new reason to show off his pearly whites. Dream Catchers at the Cori Sikich Therapeutic Riding Center announces a generous sponsorship of $5,000 from Williamsburg Orthodontics for therapy horse, Bo.

This gift underwrites the feed, hay, supplements, some tack, daily care, farrier fees and veterinarian wellness plan for one of the therapeutic riding center’s most popular horses. Williamsburg Orthodontics’ logo is featured on Bo’s saddle pad and his halter is engraved with “Williamsburg Orthodontics” so that the Center’s students, volunteers and visitors are aware of the support provided by the philanthropic orthodontic practice. Whenever Bo travels to participate in student riding demonstrations or media appearances, he will proudly wear his Williamsburg Orthodontics saddle pad and halter.

Practice founder Peter D. Wendell, DDS, is a long-time supporter and board member of Dream Catchers. Wendell introduced his partners Patti Ong Eppright, DDS and Matthew L. Eppright, DDS, to the life-changing non-profit who are equally as impressed with the highly-effective equine assisted activities provided to children and adults with special needs. Located at 4097-A Ironbound Rd., Williamsburg Orthodontics has been putting smiles on faces throughout the local community since 1984.

“Williamsburg Orthodontics understands that providing services to people to help them reach their potential is truly life-changing and we’re tremendously grateful to have them as a sponsor for Bo,” says Nancy Paschall, Executive Director at Dream Catchers.
